COAL OPERATORS AGAIN REFUSE TO MEET UNIONS

TEXAS M. C. IN BITTER ATTACK ON COLLEAGUE

Declares Whole House of Representatives Believes Banton Should be "Kicked Out"
PERSONAL CLASH PREVENTED BY THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS
Garner Statement Throws Into Disorder and Blows Seemed Imminent

WASHINGTON. — Representative Garner, democrat of Texas, declared in the house Thursday that it was in the minds of 424 of the 435 members of that body that Representative Banton of that state, "is a disgrace to this house and ought to be kicked out."

Mr. Garner's statement, coming after Banton had defended himself against a newspaper article, threw the house into great disorder and, brought from the speaker a sharp, quick command to the sergeant-at-arms to prevent a personal clash after Banton had shouted he would hold Garner responsible if called a liar by him.

At the outset of a brief speech Mr. Garner said that "in this world there are all kinds of liars, the artistic liar, the maritime liar, and the common liar."

Representative Banton, sitting a few feet away, jumped to his feet, exclaimed: "And I will hold you personally responsible if you call me a liar."

Mr. Garner did not notice the interruption, but Representative Sumners, democrat of Texas, sitting nearby, jumped to his feet and shouted at Mr. Banton, at the same time starting in his direction.

It was at this point that the sergeant-at-arms rushed in and Banton retired. Then there came from the democratic side of the chamber a cry of "Throw him out," which was picked up by other democrats, and for a moment there was great confusion. Mr. Garner waited until quiet had been restored to proceed with his speech.

Representative Banton's speech, which started the row, dealt with an address recently made in Texas in which he discussed some of the things provided for members of congress in the regular office building system, which they are permitted to purchase out of each man's stationery allowance of about $125.

"You cannot defend these measly items of graft," he shouted, referring also to mileage allowances.

Calls Him a "Creature"

Attacking Banton as a "creature," Mr. Garner declared: "It is a hard thing to say what is in one's mind about an individual. I say I have the firm conviction that I believe this individual creature would debauch the virtue of his own family to accumulate wealth or to put himself forward from a political standpoint."

Pointing to Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, a veteran member of the house and to Representative Carson of Tennessee, the democratic leader, Mr. Garner said nobody on earth would ever say either would utter an untruth.

"But I have in mind an individual—not a man—a creature who is the commonest, the biggest liar that ever spoke a word of English in this country. I have in mind a man who would put into the Congressional Record if he had the opportunity, anything that would be calculated to make the people of Texas believe you are four feet free in Washington."

SOUTH IRELAND SITUATION APPROACHING A DANGEROUS STAGE SAY LONDON PAPERS

Express Anxiety Over Growing Antagonism Between Republicans and Free State Supporters; Prospects for Peace Brighter Says Ulster Premier

LONDON. — By The Associated Press.—Indications that the situation in Ireland is becoming dangerous in consequence of growing antagonism of the republicans toward the supporters of the Free State are given in newspaper dispatches.

Hostile demonstrations by the revolting section of the Irish republican army against the irregulars have been reported with increasing frequency. These are often accompanied by shooting and the seizure of Free State property.

The suppression in some quarters is that the seceding members of the army are trying to provoke retaliation.

All the Free State men were then arrested and taken to the barracks at Dettavant, County Cork.

Craig is Hopeful

REBELAST.—By The Associated Press.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, announced in the Ulster parliament, Thursday, in the course of a statement on the criminal procedure bill, that he had just had further assurances that "the other side" intended to enforce peace themselves, and the prospects seemed to be even better than Wednesday.

Concentrate on Border

REBELAST.—By The Associated Press.—Republican forces are reported to have been concentrated on the section of the Ulster frontier between counties Leitrim and Fermanagh.

Early Thursday one constable was reported missing and three wounded from a patrol near Belleek, close to the border, and forces of police were rushed to the scene from Enniskillen in motor trucks. The party was fired on by machine gunners across the border.

County Inspector Harrison reported that an officer and six special constables patrolling the shores of Lough Lough Sillan, ten miles north of Belleek, were attacked by persons using a machine gun. The number of attackers was estimated at 75 and he said they were concealed across the border in County Fermanagh. One of the specials is believed to have been killed and three others were wounded seriously. The specials returned the fire and then hurried to their garrison for reinforcements. Meanwhile the attackers had disappeared.

Woman Holds Up Train

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—"Held up by a lady officer and newspapers burned," was the message received at the Londonderry headquarters of the Letterkenny and Lough Swilly railway Thursday by the crew of a train which had reached Letterkenny. As the Londonderry newspapers had been taken from the platform, added the message, the woman officer allowed the train to proceed.

ONE HELD ON CHARGE OF TAMPERING WITH BURCH JURY VENIRE

Private Detective Under Arrest and Another Faces Contempt of Court Charge
PROSECUTION KNEW NOTHING OF THE ALLEGED JURY TAMPERING
Woolwine and Deputy Exonerated of Knowledge of Charges

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—One private detective is under arrest on a charge of jury tampering in the case of A. C. Burch, accused of the murder of J. D. Bollen Kennedy and another faces citation for contempt of court as the result of the court investigation of the case questioning of members of the venire from which the jurors for Burch's second trial were to have been chosen.

H. S. Hoekstra, an employee of a detective agency, engaged by the state to investigate jury panels, is the man under arrest. The charge against him is a felony for which the punishment is a possible sentence of five years imprisonment or a fine of $5,000.

J. C. Neely is the man said to face citation for contempt, although he is still at liberty, while the accusations against him are being investigated.

Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney, and Asa Keyes, his deputy, at the head of the Burch prosecution, were exonerated from any knowledge of the alleged jury tampering.

SMALL AGREES TO PLAN TO SELECT NEW JURY LIST

WAUKESHA, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Governor Small Thursday withdrew his challenge to the jury panel called to sit in his trial and then accepted a proposal by Judge Edwards that a committee of three select a new jury list.

The governor's attorneys named one, the prosecution one, and these two selected a third.

The committee will take the pool list of the entire county and starting with the second name in each precinct, pick every fourth name, placing the approximately 2,200 names so chosen in the jury box from which venires will be drawn in the usual way by the clerk.

The case was then continued until Monday, April 17, at 10 a. m.

TARIFF NEEDED TO BRING U. S. BACK TO NORMAL SAYS WILLIS

Ohio Senator in Address Before Republican State Convention in Maine
ADMINISTRATION "HAMPERED" BY DEMOCRATS, HE CLAIMS
"Hold-Overs" Have Impeded Effort to Stabilize Conditions

BANGOR, Me.—A protective tariff law must be enacted at the earliest possible moment if American workmen are to be employed, if American industry is to thrive and American standards are to be maintained, Senator Willis of Ohio declared in an address Thursday before the republican state convention. American markets, he said, are being flooded with foreign made goods offered for sale in this country at only a fraction of the American labor cost alone.

Senator Willis reviewed the accomplishments of the administration, and charged that "hold-over democrats" had hampered and impeded republicans in their effort to stabilize conditions. Before many weeks, however, he said, a protective tariff law based on the principles of Blaine and McKinley would be on the federal statute books.

G. O. P. Achievements

The republican party, he said, had checked extravagance, established a budget system, reduced taxes, lopped off appropriations and maintained American ideals.

The signs look better, he said, adding that "even the promise of a republican tariff stimulates industry and starts factories."

"With the early enactment of the tariff and prompt funding of the foreign debt already provided for by law," he continued, "industrial conditions will continue to improve and under republican policies we shall have peace and prosperity at home as we have honor and prestige abroad."

Every serious international difficulty which threatened a year ago, Senator Willis declared, has either been finally settled or the definite means provided for its speedy adjustment.

Maintained National Self-Respect

All this, he added, has been done without sacrifice of national sovereignty or abatement "of self-respect, and with fullest justice to other nations."

"But it is not in the handling of foreign affairs alone," he added, "that the republican party has made a record which merits endorsement at the hands of the people. In domestic affairs, it has made more progress toward economy and business methods in eight months than the democratic party in eight years."

LOOK GOLDILY ON OFFER OF HOUSE LABOR MEMBERS

Majority of Operators in Central Field Reject Proposal for Joint Conference at Washington
SUPPORT IN NON-UNION FIELDS INCREASING CLAIM CHIEFS
Strike So Far Has Had Little Effect on Nation Outside Mining Districts

PITTSBURGH, Kansas.—The southwest interstate coal operators' association has invited the Kansas union miners to meet representatives of the association in a conference at Kansas City Monday to consider negotiations for a new contract.

With prospects of early peace in the coal strike given a setback by refusal of a number of operators' associations in Washington Monday, as suggested by the house labor committee, union officials Thursday reported a steady growth of the strike in non-union fields.

Following assurance by John L. Lewis, international president of the union, that the miners would confer with the operators providing most of the operators' associations of the central bituminous field were represented, chairman Nolan of the house labor committee telegraphed the operators an invitation to meet at Washington Monday. While a number of the operators, scale committees conferred Thursday as to what action they should take, a sufficient number Wednesday refused to attend practically to eliminate any hope for the success of the proposed conference.

Continue Coal Hearing

While awaiting the formal replies to its conference proposal, the house labor committee continued hearing witnesses in its investigation of the coal industry.

The situation in the non-union districts is clearing somewhat. Union officials believe that 21,000 non-union workers will be out in the New River and Winding Gulf fields of West Virginia by the end of the week. Operators of non-union mines insist their men are not joining the walk-out, but the union leaders have shown the deviation to the strikers' ranks of diggers in a number of previously unorganized mines.

Negotiations Under Way

Wage negotiations for the anthracite fields are continuing in New York. Numerous mine fires in the anthracite districts are reported and union aid has been sought to extinguish them.

The strike so far has had practically no effect outside of the mining fields, and some independent operators of non-union mines report there is almost no market for coal now.

Pittsburgh Declines

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—The Pittsburgh Coal Producers' association Thursday declined the invitation of Chairman Nolan of the house labor committee to meet with the operators of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and the officers of the United Mine Workers for a conference on the coal strike in Washington April 10.

"We desire to say that we have definitely and finally determined that we will not again participate in a so-called central competitive field conference. We have already notified the secretary of labor of our determination and the reason therefor," said the telegram sent Mr. Nolan.

TO GAIN ALL
SEEK ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matt. 6:33.

Blundering Strategy

NATIONALIZATION of the coal mines is not, we think, a suggestion which any great part of the public will welcome. It violates the traditions of the country against the government engaging in business, and savors too much of socialistic theory to be well received in a country essentially capitalist in its economic ideas. The American people have little confidence, as a general thing, in the ability of government to obtain efficiency in business operations. They very strenuously object to profiteering but they have never evinced any reluctance to pay ownership—capital—a fair wage for a reasonable service.

The "serious suggestion" of government ownership of coal mines made before congressional investigators of the present strike has been brought forward by mine labor before. But it has never been seriously considered, and never, that one recalls, has it actually been presented for the consideration of the government. It has been a sort of castle-in-Spain of which the mine-workers dreamed, but they have never confused their dream with practical possibilities in capitalist America—until now. One may think that the fact that President Lewis felt his position fortified to the point where such a proposal might be safely made even in the midst of a strike affords a significant commentary upon the strategy of the operators in the present conflict.

Whatever the merits of the actual controversy between mine owners and mine labor, it cannot be denied that the operators weakened their case enormously by their refusal to meet with the men as they had contracted to do. The inference from a refusal of conference is always that it springs from a consciousness of a poor case. And this supposition is doubly implied when the refusal is made in violation of a promise. The government itself, indeed, has through the secretary of labor placed the blame for failure to avert the strike upon this attitude of the operators.

It is widely believed that the purpose of the operators in the struggle is to disrupt and break up the miners' organization. But the course they have adopted has aided, rather than weakened, the strength of the union. That Mr. Lewis should propose government ownership to the government measures his recognition of the advantage his opponents have placed in his hands.

The Jungle Dwarf

In the Malay jungles Garveth Wells, explorer, found a dwarf with a remarkable invention. The dwarf, a little, coffee-colored chap—was one of the lowest forms of human life, nearly as low as the dog-eating Igorots of Luzon were a generation ago before the coming of the white man. This dwarf had a fire-making tool. It was a bone plunger, with a leather washer to make it air-tight. This plunger was inserted in a piece of hollow bone closed at one end. The dwarf carried a pouch made from the cocoon of a jungle moth. In this pouch he had a supply of linder, dried vegetable powder-fiber. He placed a tiny bit of the linder on the end of the plunger, put the plunger in its bone holder, struck it one sharp blow. Pulling it out, the linder was afire.

This process, the reverse of a vacuum, causes combustion by the compression of air. The jungle dwarf's invention is the same principle as the famous Diesel engine, which generates heat by compression.

The jungle dwarfs of Malaysia probably have had this bone fire-maker for thousands of years. Yet it never occurred to them to apply the principle to anything except making fire. Rudolf Diesel, German inventor, born in Paris, discovered the same principle in the generating of power. The difference between Rudolf Diesel and the Malay jungle dwarf was largely one of imagination, the greatest brain faculty developed by civilization.

People talk about how many great inventions are "stumbled on" by accident. More important than the accident is possession of sufficient vision to realize possibilities of the find.

Bed-time stories and sermons are being sent out by radio. Be careful you don't get them mixed.

What Costs

THERE is a whole lot more in almost everything—yes, in everything—that you buy than meets the eye. Even so simple a thing as a potato or a carrot represents hours of labor in its own production and in the creation of the tools and other equipment necessary for the farmer. The seed potato from which it grew is the smallest item, probably, of all that enters into the growth and marketing of your potato—and yet too many of us will hastily figure out that it takes only a few bushels of potatoes to plant an acre, count the hundreds of bushels the crop will make and then envy the farmer for getting the difference as "clear profit." Very often, as a matter of fact, if the farmer kept books which really told him his costs of production, he would find that he lost money on his potato crop.

Recently we ran across in the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald an interesting discussion along these lines which, we believe, it will harm no one to read and digest in the interest of fairness and sound judgment. Glance at this:

People pay $40.00 for a suit of clothes and claim that the price is unreasonable because the suit contains only $5.00 worth of raw wool.

The clothing manufacturer answers by stating that it is the high cost of labor which makes the cost of the suit.

But a great many people are not satisfied with this answer. They still want to be shown. They feel that there must be a bigger in the poolside somewhere.

Have they, however, stopped to think—That six egg plants at thirty-five cents each in season, can be produced from one seed which cost 1-100 of a cent?

That several tons of apples can be raised on an apple tree which costs but fifty cents?

That an acre of oats, worth $12.00, comes from forty-five cents worth of seed?

That a $5,000 automobile engine is manufactured out of iron worth $30.00?

That $2,000.00 worth of finished silk goods can be made from four dollars and fifty cents' worth of silk worms?

That a piece of furniture which sells for a thousand and is made from a mahogany log which a native of the tropics floated down stream and sold to a trader for a plug of tobacco?

That a Rembrandt painting which is priceless consumed but a dollar's worth of paint?

That $5.00 worth of note paper can be manufactured out of five cents' worth of rags?

That the hand-worked gray-cloth which serves a king may be fashioned out of a quarter's worth of flax?

That most of the misunderstandings which confuse us, would disappear if we could but master facts, which cost nothing but a little mental effort?

Labor brings the egg plant, the apple tree and the oat field to maturity.

Iron, without labor, is as useless as clay. With long days of labor it becomes the twelve-cylinder engine. The strand of silk in the cocoon is as worthless as a blade of grass until it becomes joined to man's inventive ability.

And so it is with wool—it must be washed and scoured, carded or combed on expensive machinery, made into yarns, woven into fabrics, shrunk, finished, tailored, labored with through a hundred operations—literally millions of hazards being encountered—until the little handful of wool from the sheep's back, with which the operation started, turns out to be the most insignificant part of the whole process.

And so it is with a thousand other products, whether made of wool, cotton, iron, copper, leather or cocoons.

Of course, if any man still thinks that there is not much of anything in a suit of clothes but some raw wool, the thing for him to do is to make his own cloth, tailor it into a suit and thus get the laugh on the clothier and manufacturer.

Let's be fair! Let every honest American look in to his own labor costs before he accuses his neighbor of being a profiteer.

Jim Takes His Lunch

(BY JANE OSBORN)

Aunt Sally Stone had come to spend a few months with her nephew, Jim, and thereon lay advantage and disadvantages for both.

It was pleasant to think that one of his own kind would sit across from him at dinner in the dining room of the apartment hotel where he made his home. It was not so pleasant to have to burden himself with the duty of telephoning to Aunt Sally when he would be half an hour late. It was pleasant to think that his socks would be regularly darned and that all missing buttons would be replaced on his shirts. It was not so pleasant when Aunt Sally became so solicitous and inquisitive regarding Jim's matrimonial prospects. There was not a girl picture on his bureau or desk.

There were no feminine letters in the mail or in Jim's coat pockets. Nor did Jim have any evening engagements save those he explained as of business importance.

And this solicitation was tiresome. Even more tiresome did Aunt Sally become concerning Jim's lunches. She questioned him from the results of persistent questioning just how much it must cost Jim to buy his lunches at a restaurant. She estimated how much this would amount to in a year. Then at breakfast one day Aunt Sally said, beaming:

"Jim, I found out that they put up lunches here for the boarders. And they don't charge for them. You know you pay for lunch, don't you? So I told the waiter to have yours put up with the rest." Then Jim saw put up a shining heart the maid's answer back and bulged, beside Aunt Sally's plate. "Here it is, Jim. Don't forget it."

Jim offered a few objections, but in vain. So he started off with his bag of lunch. It seemed childish to deposit it in an ashcan on the way to the subway. Besides, there was a strain of thrift in Jim's makeup that had for a moment responded to Aunt Sally's figuring. His salary had not necessitated greater economy than he now practiced, but he would at least give the plan a trial. It would give the maid in the office something to talk about.

However the lunches did not appeal to Jim. Cheese sandwiches became rather dry and tasteless by 12 o'clock. Jim was strongly of the opinion that the lunches were put up right before it. It was not easy to get a tough-skinned orange at his desk. The cake crumbled and he found vestiges of it among his papers all the afternoon. But Jim continued to carry his bag of lunch though he no longer ate it. Aunt Sally would be with him only a month more. He preferred not to raise any strong objection.

Jim's habit was to lay the bag of lunch beside his desk. One day he was so busy with outside business through the City hall at about 3 o'clock that when he returned at about 5 o'clock he found the first time that he had laid to lunch. The bag had no time to go to him, but he was hungry, and it occurred to him that even one of those cheese sandwiches would be palatable. And that was when he noticed for the first time that his lunch bag disappeared before lunch time. Once he found crumbs on the floor. Another time the bag remained but the lunch was gone.

"Apparently my lunch eater does not like bananas," thought he. There was about the only clue he had to work on. The problem was really interesting. At times it troubled him to think that any he was a junior partner and from which he drew such a satisfactory salary should be so badly paid as to be willing to eat the tasteless lunches, especially when to do so necessitated considerable stealth. Obviously the culprit was to take a lunch that would otherwise be thrown in the trash basket was culpable—watched the door of his office carefully in order to get the lunch when he was away.

Jim studied the faces of the office boys, trying to single out the one with the hungriest, most pinched expression as the probable lunch snatcher. Then he spied on the boy a little but found that they were all in the habit of lunching at a little Greek lunch counter around the corner. Never had one been known to cut in.

Once he asked Miss Baldwin, who took his dictation, whether she had any suspicions on the subject.

"Don't think," she said, "that I should at all. Whoever takes it probably knows that I don't want it anyway. I am only concerned to think that any on working here has ADGE CAME down the street from the grocery, stepping along carefully to avoid the mud puddles. Her father's big umbrella held close over her head, so that it seemed as if she were walking under a cloud. She opened the umbrella itself were moving along in the drizzle.

Her face was puckered up, her mouth drooped at the corners, as she splashed along. She hadn't wanted to go to the grocery. It seemed to her that she was always doing things she didn't want to. It was a nasty, wet old world.

She went around to the back of the house, in order to keep from getting the front porch muddy. As she stepped up on the porch she heard her name mentioned, and she stopped, before she realized that she was eavesdropping.

"Yes," her mother was saying, "Madge has on her April face again today."

"She is a regular barometer," the other voice agreed. Madge realized that it was Aunt Katherine, her lovely Aunt Katherine, who was visiting them, and for whose good opinion Madge cared very much.

"She certainly is," said Madge's mother. "When the sun is shining and she doesn't have anything to do, and the world is just right, her face is like a sunbeam. But let the clouds begin to gather, and you can see the thunderstorm coming in her face."

"It's too bad," said Aunt Katherine. "She has a pretty face. Oh well, it won't be long 'til we have 'May flowers'."

Madge tiptoed off the porch and then came back up again, making a good deal of noise as she did so. The corners of her mouth were going up and up, as she said to herself, "I'm going to show them that May is already here."

THE PAPER LILY

Margaret Bruden, a tall, dark-eyed, serious girl, and her younger sister, Julie, frail and sunny-haired, are sitting at a little square table making paper flowers. Besides the table there are a couple of coats and a dressing table in the room. At the right is a curtained doorway leading into another room. At the left is a single, half-opened window, near which the girls are working, with their backs to it.

JULIE: Anyway, I'd rather make these than roses. I was so sick of that when I was a kid.

MARGARET: Why, at night I'd dream of roses, just that shade, jumping up and down all over the bed.

MARGARET: White is such a nice, cool color. I think. Be careful, Julie. You've cut that petal crooked. We can't spoil any of these if we're to have them ready when mother comes home so she can do the finishing touches to-night.

JULIE: I've been working fast as I can, Margaret, but I can't help it. I because I was kept in at school. I was sleepy, and I didn't hear the question.

MARGARET: Well, don't fuss about it now. Hand me some more of the green. Julie, did you ever see a real Easter lily? (The face of a young girl appears in the window.)

JULIE: Of course. I pass about twenty-seven florists on the way to school. There's one next here, you know. And they're all stocked up with Easter lilies already.

MARGARET: You mean, one right near us? You could smell it and even touch it. Once we had a lily, a real one with a gold heart. I can close my eyes and see it now. You were too little to remember, Julie.

JULIE: I wish one of these paper flowers would turn into a real lily, Margaret. Ummm! I can just think how it would smell. (The face in the window is gone now.)

MARGARET: What a funny wish. I think you must almost believe it. That would be a miracle, and they don't happen now.

JULIE: How do you know?

MARGARET: Well, they don't—they don't. I think you must almost believe it. That would be a miracle, and they don't happen now.

JULIE: Maybe I do. (They are quiet for a moment, except for Julie's low humming.)

MARGARET (clumping): Good gracious! Oh, but that was well. (She runs out through the doorway.)

JULIE (calling): Bring me a glass of water, please, Margaret. This old dust comes sweeping in when that window right on the sidewalk is open. My throat feels like it was stuffed with cotton.

MARGARET (from kitchen): You'll have to come get it, Julie.

JULIE: All right. (She runs through the doorway. As she does so, two white faces appear in the window. One is a girl, the other is a boy.)

TO-DAY'S PUZZLE

The letters in the title of a famous book for young men have been numbered 1 through 10, as follows: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. A tray for carrying bricks: 7, 6, 1, 10, 8, 9, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1.

Answer to yesterday's: Tent, ever, Nava, trap.

"I feel quite put out about this," said the man, as the usher ran him out of the theater.

such a flat purse as to need such a wasteful lunch. I'd take it up with the starchy committee if I thought we didn't pay enough."

Pretty Molly Baldwin looked to the left and the end of her pencil, and her eyes were lowered. "Don't you think that there might be some one who—well, some one who could help me to get some money to spend on my still-unfinished room?" She might have been saying, "I'm a little bit of a help, or something, and so might be glad to get the lunch that would otherwise be thrown away. It costs forty cents at least to get lunch even in a cheap place. Mr. Leroy, and forty cents a day for five days a week is two dollars and two dollars a week for a year is a hundred dollars."

Jim was looking out of the window and really said nothing. But Molly said: "What did you say, Mr. Leroy?"

"I was saying, or, rather, thinking, that you were a girl after Aunt Sally's heart. I never knew any one else who figured things out that way, but apparently you do, too."

Then, as there seemed to be nothing else to do, Molly left the room, and started to go. As she went, Jim called her back. He had always admired the girl—such a good sport, so efficient in her own particular duties, so even in her temper. Yes, and she was really very pretty. And Sally would thoroughly approve of her.

"Did you call me back?" asked Molly, who had been standing for a moment while Jim was reflecting.

"I asked if you would go to lunch with me," said Jim, surprised at his own quick decision. "I thought we could talk over some business."

On the list of "Specials for Today" on the menu of the restaurant where Jim and Molly lunched, was written "Banana Shortcake."

"Won't you have some of this?" asked Jim, pointing to the menu that Sally was studying.

"Oh!" said Molly with a little frown. "I can't endure bananas!"

When Jim noticed the untouched bag of lunch was scolding inside his desk. This work as a detective was progressing.

Within the two weeks that followed, Jim Leroy took several occasions to study his suspect. He took her to dinner, then to dinner and the theatre and properly called at her house.

As Jim expected, the confession came without guilting. It was the night Jim was taking Molly home from the theatre that after many false starts and a blush or two she told him that she had taken the lunches. "Only I never ate the bananas," she added. "I don't like them."

"You suggested," said Jim in reply, "that possibly the lunch eater needed to save money to help support a family or to save for some good purpose. Your family does not seem in need of help. What in the world are you saving money for?"

"Money and what works ought to have money saved to buy furniture and things," said Molly frankly. Then she stopped, wishing she had not been so frank.

"Are—are you thinking of being married?" said Jim with difficulty. "I did not know you were engaged."

"Oh, I'm not engaged—of course not," said Molly in confusion, "but most girls are eventually."

They had reached Molly's front porch by this time and Jim stayed. Molly's hand before it touched the bell. He took the hand tenderly in his and watched to see whether her expression showed resentment. Seeing none, he took courage.

"Would you—could you—do you think you'd care to be engaged to me?" And before Molly pressed the button that summoned her watchful mother to the door she had said yes to Jim's query.

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN IMPROVEMENTS FOR THE COMING YEAR

Gratifying Reports Presented at the Annual Meeting of the Church

A building extension and improvement program was the new note in the annual meeting deliberations of the First Presbyterian congregation on Wednesday evening. Attention was called to the fact that next year, 1925, will be the fortieth anniversary of the present church building, and that it would be in order to make it the occasion of a re-dedication, having completed by that time certain needed extensions to the Bible school department and a refitting of the entire exterior.

For this purpose there had been appointed a special committee of the trustees, consisting of F. H. Seofield, Ole Elbertson and W. L. Smith, who are authorized to formulate plans, and to arrange a financial campaign which will meet the conditions of a separate offer of one thousand dollars, already made by one of the members of the church.

Big Budget Raised

Reports from the several treasurers showed encouraging balances on hand to the extent of about eight hundred dollars, with a total disbursement of almost eleven thousand. This, according to the statement of the financial secretary, F. H. Seofield, is the largest budget ever raised by the congregation. Aside from the usual percentage apportioned for general benevolence (missions, education, moral welfare, etc.), the congregation is assisting in the establishment of a "religious center" at the state university, where a church has been organized and valuable property secured by the synod's committee.

Aaron Westorhens, clerk of sessions, reported accessions to the membership of forty-nine. This, allowing for deaths, removals and absences, makes the present active membership 525.

Aside from the re-election of trustees, deacons and elders, Prof. G. M. Wiley was chosen as a member of the session, and J. H. Lamborn as a trustee; the latter to fill the vacancy of C. V. Johnson, removed from the city. B. C. Smith was the presiding officer of the evening, with A. C. Millington, clerk.

The supper which preceded the meeting was enjoyed by about one hundred and fifty members. It was in charge of the Young People's society of the church, whose committee of arrangements was, Miss Mary Sham, Malinda Gueuther and Mrs. H. E. Leithold. Appreciation for the efficient and tasteful service rendered was expressed by a rising vote.

The choir of the church under leadership of Miss Stella Trane, with assistance Stainer's "Crucifixion" on Palm Sunday evening, a special chorus for this purpose having been organized a month ago. A hearty vote of approval was given the pastor, Rev. Claude H. Shaver.

HOUSE VOTES TO RESERVE BOOTLEGGING "PRIVILEGE" FOR U. S. CITIZENS ONLY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The bootlegging industry is to be Americanized. Alien bootleggers must get naturalization papers or quit business. The proud privilege of selling liquor illegally will be reserved exclusively for 100 per cent Americans.

By a vote of 222 to 73 the house Wednesday passed the bill for the deportation of aliens who violate the prohibition and narcotic laws. The bill was put through after some lively debate in which a few of the less fanatical "dry" joined with the "wets" in an effort to make the house realize what a ridiculous action it was taking. The measure bore the Anti-Saloon league's approval, however, and its passage was a foregone conclusion.

Slam at Anti-Saloon League

"This bill is to make the United States safe for American bootleggers," said Representative Hill (Md.). "For the first time we have the bootleggers' union fighting under the banner of the Anti-Saloon league. A large number of members of the house received a copy of Wayne Wheeler's orders to members of the house to vote for this bill, and in a few minutes we will witness the spectacle of the bootleggers and the Anti-Saloon league going over the top together."

"I don't care whether a bootlegger is an American or a foreigner—I want to get rid of both," shouted Representative Crampton (Mich.), republican.

Walsh Denounces Bill

"This is a rather frank effort," said Representative Walsh (Mass.), republican, "to reserve space in the jails for the American violators. We might expect such legislation in Kansas."

where they fix the length of bed sheets by law. Wayne Wheeler is the man who made bootlegging possible. He is not the enemy of the bootlegger; he has made it possible for the bootleggers to ply their trade.

Representative Tinecher (Kan.), republican, did not like Walsh's fling at Kansas lawmakers.

"How about the laws to burn witches in Massachusetts?" Tinecher asked sarcastically.

"O," responded Walsh, "such things are only used to frighten naughty little boys and girls in Kansas when they won't behave or go to sleep at night."

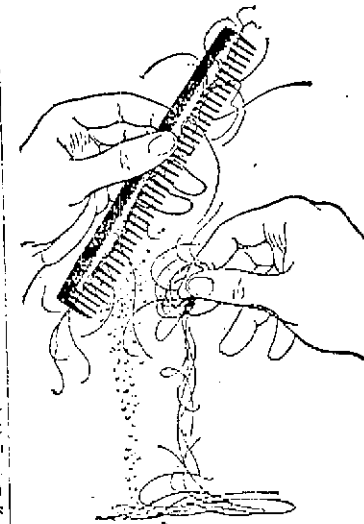

Representative Graham (Pa.), republican, said the law was so clumsily drawn that it was difficult to interpret. He expressed the opinion that it would require the deportation of aliens for violating state liquor laws and regulations.

BERLIN.—Some new details concerning the former kaiser's mode of life at Doorn were furnished by the former court chaplain, Dr. Vogel, in an address recently at Koenigsberg.

Yeast users troubled by weak, disordered or delicate stomachs will find gratifying relief in Yeast Foam Tablets. They have all the tonic value of baking yeast—and this great advantage: They do not cause gas or belching.

What to take

Yeast Foam Tablets for

"I can't eat yeast; it upsets my stomach."

"I'd like to be able to eat yeast, for I know how much it would help me, but I simply cannot eat it."

"It upsets my stomach, fills me up with gas and causes me terrible distress!"

How often we have all heard those familiar words!

Especially from people who have weak stomachs and chronic indigestion.

Baking yeast does cause gas

The fact of the matter is, of course, that the common baking yeast does cause fermentation.

If it didn't it wouldn't be baking yeast, because the chief purpose of baking yeast is to generate gas so that the bread will be full of "gas holes" and therefore light and fluffy.

This new yeast doesn't cause gas

For those thousands of people who would eat yeast for its splendid health-building properties—if they only could—we have good news!

Yeast Foam Tablets do not cause gas. And this further news: that these tablets are pure whole yeast and that they have all the therapeutic and tonic properties of baking yeast.

High vitamin content in small dose

Yeast Foam Tablets contain no drugs or other ingredients.

They are from 4 to 5 times as concentrated as the ordinary baking yeast which insures the necessary vitamin potency in a much smaller dose.

Every lot of Yeast Foam Tablets is carefully tested and proved to possess a high and uniform vitamin power.

At the first signs of vitamin deficiency—loss of appetite; indigestion; loss of weight and physical endurance; anaemia; unhealthy skin; constipation; nervousness, etc.—get a bottle of Yeast Foam Tablets from your druggist and take them regularly for a few weeks.

You will be agreeably surprised at their prompt and notably tonic effect on the whole body.

Made by makers of Yeast Foam

Yeast Foam Tablets are made and guaranteed, both as to purity and vitamin content, by the Northwestern Yeast Company—the world's largest manufacturers of dry yeast and the makers for 45 years of the famous baking yeasts, Yeast Foam and Magic Yeast.

They are sold by druggists everywhere.

Avoid untested "vitamin products"

The great popularity of yeast and its remarkable health-building properties have been seized by patent medicine manufacturers, many of whose products are untested and do not possess enough yeast to have sufficient vitamin potency.

When taking yeast, be sure to get it in its purest and most potent form.

To the medical profession

Yeast Foam Tablets meet your requirements; they are what you've been looking for; they have all the tonic properties of baking yeast—and this big outstanding advantage: they do not cause fermentation.

COAL STRIKE MEANS HOLIDAY FOR MINERS IN PENNSY DISTRICT

Workers Enjoying Vacation for First Time in Many Years

WILKESBARRE, Pa.—Suspension of operations in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania was hailed by the average mine worker as an opportunity for a vacation and most of them are planning to enjoy the holiday for the first time in many years. For eleven years the collieries have been operating on almost a full schedule the war period being marked by unusual activity.

Young men and boys made idle by the suspension have turned to athletics as a means of breaking the monotony. Baseball, basketball and tennis appear to be the favorite diversions. Baseball leagues are being formed in the three districts and regularly scheduled games are planned. The streets of the larger cities in the hard coal region and business is reported brisk. Theaters and motion picture houses are playing to capacity houses and the department stores report the usual large crowds. Some persons who were so financially fortified for the strike are seeking work in other industries.

In the Shamokin district hundreds of the idle men are preparing gardens and truck patches for spring planting. Many are going south and in event of a protracted strike hope to realize a substantial sum on their vegetable crops.

Large numbers of the idle hundreds and fifty-five thousand idle miners have left for visits to their old homes in Europe.

The world's championship boxing contest between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, held in Jersey City, will be shown in motion pictures at the La Crosse Theater for four days, starting April 22.

These are the much discussed pictures made at the ringside under the supervision of Tex Rickard, promoter of the famous match and show every detail of the great event, from the building of the huge arena, with its seating capacity of 10,000 spectators, up to the final blow that ended the struggle in the fourth round, and the reaction given both men as they left the ring.

One of the outstanding features of the film is the introduction of slow motion photography, enabling the audience to see every move of the two contestants, slowed down to one-eighth normal speed.

MOTHERS' CLUBS HOLDING ROUSING PRACTICAL MEETS

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON the Mothers' club of the Logan school met in the kindergarten room. Miss Webber, the kindergarten teacher, had arranged a most entertaining program.

Miss Beust, the children's librarian, talked about "Books for Children," and told a story to illustrate the type of stories told at "The Story Hour" in the library.

Mrs. E. C. Thompson, president of the La Crosse Community Council, spoke on the value of a home makers' club and outlined the program arranged by the council and vocational schools co-operating. The French Island dress form team was present and made a form for Mrs. Spencer. This form was made in 25 minutes, everyone present watching with interest. Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. McGinn and Mrs. McKeezie, the team work.

The women present at the end of the demonstration voted to organize the Ninth Ward Home Makers' club. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Atkinson; vice president, Mrs. J. Chalmers; secretary, Mrs. H. Tietz; treasurer, Mrs. J. S. McEl-derry.

The club voted to meet on alternate Thursday evenings and at the different club members homes. Daily refreshments were served by the members of the Mothers' club to the 40 ladies present.

A rousing mothers' meeting was held at the Jefferson school kindergarten. Miss Zerler, the kindergarten teacher, had sent invitations out to the mothers of her pupils. Seventy-two responded. An interesting talk was given on "The Value of a Home Makers' Club to Your Home," by Mrs. E. C. Thompson of the Community Council. The program arranged by the Community Council and the vocational school co-operating was outlined.

Many questions were asked. The Home Makers' club of French Island was represented by its dress form team. This team demonstrated its work by making a "form" for Mrs. James Salts.

Thirty-eight of those present voted to organize the Fifth Ward Home Makers' club. The following were elected: Mrs. James Salts, president; Mrs. McGinn, vice president; Mrs. Evans, secretary; Mrs. Lumbly, treasurer.

The following ladies form the new club's dress form team, which has been taught to make forms and is now ready to help any member of the club. They are Mrs. Salts, Mrs. E. R. Stanley, Mrs. E. O. Miller and Mrs. W. E. Ledgett.

This club will meet at the community room in the Jefferson school on alternate Thursday evenings.

Miss Zerler and the members of the Logan Kindergarten Mothers' club served sandwiches, cakes and coffee. Over three dollars was added to the club's treasury by the sale of cakes at this meeting.

LOOK INTO HIDDEN ANGLES OF TRAGEDY IN OKLAHOMA CITY

No Intoxicants Served at Party Which Preceded Shooting Declares Day

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—Various phases of the slaying here of Lieutenant Colonel Paul Wark Beck, assistant commandant of Post field, Fort Sill, Okla., early Tuesday in the home of Jean P. Day, oil man and prominent attorney, were being developed Thursday by county officials. County Attorney Forrest Hughes declared he was investigating possible "hidden angles" of the tragedy. X-ray photographs definitely settled the question as to where Beck was shot. Shattered fragments of a bullet were disclosed in his head.

Day has declared he struck Beck over the head with the revolver when he returned home and found the aviator attempting to assault Mrs. Day. The revolver was discharged accidentally. Day asserts, protesting that he did not intend to kill Beck.

The liquor angle was also being investigated, asserted Attorney Hughes, as well as federal prohibition officers. Coroner McWilliams announced the found bottles and sliced oranges in the room in which Beck was slain.

Mr. Day declared Thursday that nothing stranger than non-fatalities applied could have been served at the midnight dancing party in the Day home preceding the tragedy.

Lieutenant Colonel Beck was absolutely sober, Day said he believed.

Both Day and Mrs. Day have announced they will take the stand and tell the story of the killing at the coroner's inquest set for Saturday afternoon.

Association Favors Enforcement of Prohibition Until Amendment is Repealed

NEW YORK.—Leaders of the association against the prohibition amendment have completed arrangements for a membership rally Thursday night in Carnegie hall. Purposes of the association are:

"To oppose the passage of similar tyrannical laws, and to endeavor to give the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment (so long as it remains in force) to the people of the several states under the concurrent clause."

"To work patiently, lawfully, and patriotically for the repeal of the prohibition amendment and to preserve the constitution of the United States from further mutilation by an organized financial minority."

"To oppose the accomplishment of the above program, to favor and encourage obedience to the prohibition laws as now effective."

RUSS SOVIET FEARS GREATER SHORTAGE OF FOOD IN SPRING

Nation May Not be Able to Feed Part of Population Not Cared for by Foreign Aid

MOSCOW.—Russia is approaching her most dreaded season, the early spring, with the realization in government circles that her first year of free trade under Communism has not filled her warehouses with supplies of food to tide her over until the next harvest.

The early spring months, before the first harvest is in and when the sleigh traffic vanishes along with the snow and the thaw makes highways impassable, will be the test, both for food and fuel. Even now, with the roads in good condition, Moscow, Petrograd and other large cities are short of food.

The government warehouses may have enough to dole out to the Red Army and favored employees for some months. The rest of the population is dependent on food brought in by traders.

Each spring for the past five years, however, a similar crisis has been met in some way. Foreign grain from abroad is now hoped for but not confidently expected by the Soviet leaders.

The fuel shortage looms up even more prominently than the lack of food. The Donetz basin, Russia's great coal fields, showed increased yields during the early winter, when by a special drive food was secured for the miners. Now, the famine in the Ukraine and the general lack of food and transportation elsewhere all have contributed to cut down coal production again. Without fuel the miners cannot work.

Similarly, in Siberia and Turkestan, according to the newspaper, Economic Life, a lack of fuel is responsible for failure to move food to central Russia.

Owing to the lack of supplies in government warehouses, the number of persons rationed by the state has just been further reduced from 11,000,000 to 11,000,000, including the Red Army. Only these 11,000,000 in all Russia receive the ration. All others are dependent on their own meager harvests, if peasants, or on what they can buy, if city dwellers.

CANDY FASHIONS OF SCOTLAND

A young American tourist stopped in a shop in a Scottish town one Sunday morning to buy some candy for a Scotch lassie of his acquaintance, and as soon as the customer ahead of him had been served he asked for chocolate creams.

"I didn't sell chocolate creams on the Sabbath," the old dame behind the counter said severely.

"But," the young man protested, "you sold candy to the woman who has just gone out."

"Aye," some ecclesiastical confectioner, but no chocolate creams," the old dame declared.

"Some what?" gasped the tourist. "Ecclesiastical confectionery—that is, peppermint drops, pan drops and ginger lozenges," she graciously explained, and added sternly, "but no chocolate creams." — Ladies' Home Journal.

One of the Trees That Made Wisconsin Famous

Some tree! But there are few like it left in old Wisconsin.

The days of the Norway Pine, tall, straight, majestic, has passed. The trail of the logger has left naught but charred stumps and straggling second growth in that northern country. Our great north woods has given way to the modern improved farm.

In the Northern Lakes Park, where this picture was taken, thousands of these old pines still remain, pines from 250 to 300 years old, trees that were thriving youngsters when our forefathers first landed on the Massachusetts coast.

But the Trail of the Logger has now reached the threshold of this last bit of Old Wisconsin. The logging railroad is laid and the lumberjack was ready with his axe when a movement was started by Wisconsin citizens to save this tract as a state park. Quick action must be taken, however, or the Harvest of the Pines will go on.

STOCK MARKET STRONGER

Trading in All Lines Broadens With New Records Reached by Many Stocks

NEW YORK.—The stock market strengthened as trading broadened in every direction Thursday. Sales to date were estimated at 750,000 shares. Many new records were made by steel, motors, equipments, oil, rails, buying, and selling. The market was especially buoyant and the price of May delivery, which went to 10 cents over July as against 12 cents over at one time earlier in the week. The close was unusual, with May $1.30 1/2 and July $1.18 1/2. The market ended off somewhat lower with May $1.28 1/2 and July $1.17 1/2. The close was unsettled at 2 1/2 to 1 1/2 net advance with July 62 and 63 1/2.

WHEAT PRICES HIGHER

Unfavorable Report From Southwest When Chicago, Ill.—Unfavorable crop reports from the southwest tended to bring about higher prices for wheat during the early dealings Thursday. A leading expert advised that the crop in general was very late and was likely to deteriorate in a rapid manner if weather proved as dry as usual during May. Comparative firmness of Liverpool quotations helped also to lift values here. The opening, which was unchanged to 1/2 cent higher, May $1.22 1/2 to $1.23 1/2 and July $1.18 1/2 to $1.19 1/2, was followed by a steady gain all around and then something of a reaction.

Wet weather was more or less responsible for an upward price of corn. After opening 1/2 cent to a shade advance July 51 1/2 the market settled at 51 1/2. Subsequently, selling of wheat to corn storage led to a decided setback in the price of May delivery, which went to 10 cents over July as against 12 cents over at one time earlier in the week. The close was unusual, with May $1.30 1/2 and July $1.18 1/2. The market ended off somewhat lower with May $1.28 1/2 and July $1.17 1/2. The close was unsettled at 2 1/2 to 1 1/2 net advance with July 62 and 63 1/2.

100 MANY MINERS SAYS WILLIAMS INDIRECT CAUSE OF GREAT COAL WALK-OUT

LACK OF COAL CARS A FACTOR IN THE TROUBLE

Operators Keep Oversized Crews Idle in Order to Get More Cars

(By WHITING WILLIAMS)
(Copyright, 1922, N.E.A. Service)
"Good! Thank! Good! Tomorrow's work!"
That's what I heard men and women saying in our mine towns every afternoon at 5 o'clock when the tipple men announced the good news. The trouble was that on so many days the news was bad. Then you would see big, husky men run their hands through their hair. "My God! My God! How can I live? What can I do? No work tomorrow!"
If we don't know about that daily whistle with its good news or bad, the coal strike looks just like an ordinary misdoing. As long as we insist upon ordering our coal when we want it and not a day before, the coal miners and the coal operators will be hard to get along with. They will all be suffering from that distemper which causes more unhappiness in American industry than any other. It is called the "Peak and Trough Disease." Of that disease, the tipple's whistle is only a symptom. Our bunching of our orders into our cold weather is the cause. For coal cannot be mined or stored at the mine in advance without increased cost.

WILLIAMS. NOW AND THEN

WILLIAMS KNOWS FROM EXPERIENCE

Whiting Williams, Cleveland steel executive, is credited with knowing more about the workingman's viewpoint than any man in America as the result of his extensive "pick and shovel" investigations of working conditions throughout the world.
In this article Williams gives the La Crosse Tribune and Leader-Press readers an unbiased survey of the national mine strike—as the worker views it.
Williams left his job as vice president of a Cleveland steel concern in January, 1919, and worked several months as a common laborer in American steel plants, coal mines and round-houses.
In 1920 he toiled as miner, steel worker and shipbuilder in Britain. In 1921 he worked shoulder to shoulder with the industrial toilers of France, Belgium and Germany, getting a firsthand view of the real work of European reconstruction.
Williams has written many books and articles embodying the results of his investigations. He is continually in demand as a lecturer.

etary capital and labor dispute about wages and hours. According to our side, the operators and owners are robbing the country for their swollen profits. According to the other, something like 600,000 strong men are using their jobs in a basic and indispensable industry to demand a full week's wages for only 30 hours' work.

Whistle the "Boss"
It is the whistle that tells us that either mine owner or mine worker is as bad as he appears. The whistle knows that both of them are pretty much his slaves.

The soft coal mines of America yielded in 1921 an average of only 170 days and in 1920 an average of only 224. The hard coal miners generally worked a larger number.

That is the way an unprejudiced witness known as the director of the U. S. Geological Survey tells the story of the whistle.
The story means that between 100,000 and 150,000 more miners are kept in the coal towns than can be as possibly be given a full year's wages. At even $1600 each, their wages alone add $100,000,000 to the cost of our daily coal. If the miners went "inside" every working day, they would give us 10 per cent more coal than we could possibly dispose of. And if those who were lucky enough to have more than 30 hours of work on themselves down and save their extra hours to those who average less than 30, then those five working days of six hours each could produce more coal than is ordinarily obtained. Thus, the 30-hour demand is not for less work, but for a more even division of what work there is.

As it stands, tonnage rates and hourly rates endeavor to give the worker something like a living wage even though he can't do anything like a year's work.

Overhead Costly
Besides the wages of workless men, other hundreds of millions are added to our coal bill by the useless and unproductive "overhead" of all these workless days. That's not only interest on the money tied up in idle machinery, cars, etc. It is also the cost of pumping water out of, and pumping air into, the dark passages below ground. Even the air of one day's pumping-in weighs more than the coal of one day's taking-out! Both air and water must be moved whether any coal moves or not. Without such attention for even a few weeks the ordinary mine would become a ruin.

Whiting Williams (top) and (below) as he looked when he worked in U. S. mines.

"What is the 'why' of all this huge expense of life money, life machinery and idle men? Whose fault is it?"

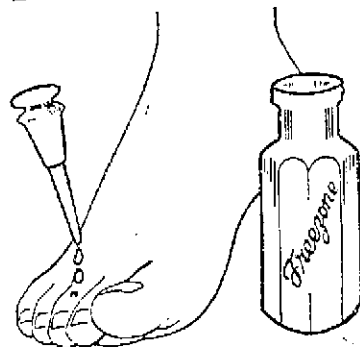

Well, for one thing we haven't enough railway cars to supply all the mines when their peak demand arrives. That's why the mine owners want the men to be in the mine towns even though they can't be kept busy. For the more men a mine has on its payroll, the higher its maximum daily theoretical production and, therefore, the higher its "rating"—and so the bigger share it gets of the cars which do happen to be available for the district.

Would Raise Rates
Of course, we could require the railroads to build enough cars to supply 100 per cent of their peak demand of our coldest days. The trouble is that the "overhead" cost of this would raise our freight rates on everything because those cars would stand idle most of the year.

No, a better way to give King Coal and all his subjects in our mine towns a happier disposition would be for us consumers to recognize our

"DAN CUPID" FINDS ALLY IN WARDEN OF COUNTY WORKHOUSE

Postoffice Department for Exchange of Love Letters is Established

WILMINGTON, Del.—Iron bars, stone walls and the ball and chain have no terrors for Dan Cupid. The little dare-devil has nosed his way into the Newcastle county workhouse, according to the warden, and as a result it has become necessary to furnish him with a place to carry on his work.

A jail postoffice with a censorship for love letters now is part of the institution.

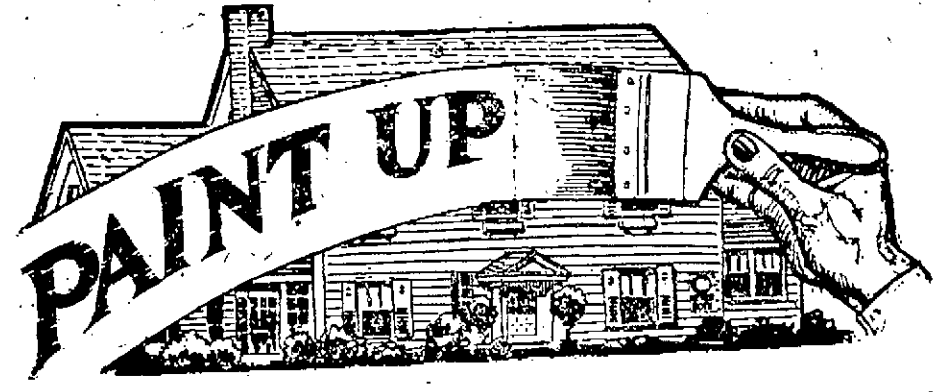

"It was the logical thing to do," the warden said. "Because men or women are in jail is no reason to think they want fall in love. Lots of romances begin in prison."

The warden explained to the Wilmington League of Women Voters that his decision to install the postoffice followed the discovery of an "underground mail system" in the workhouse.

"You can't blame the men for falling in love. There are some pretty girls in the workhouse," he said. "After they serve their time some of them may make good wives for some one."

MOOSE START BIG DRIVE FOR MEMBERS IN LA CROSSE

New Lodge Will be Instituted April 12th—Order Has Grown from Handful of Kentuckians to 600,000 in Many Countries

One of the romances of modern achievements is the growth of the Loyal Order of Moose. It was founded in Louisville in 1888, but there were only 247 members in 1900. These were in three or four lodges.

The two hundred and forty-seventh member to sign the roll was a young Welshman, named James Davis. He presented one of the possibilities of the order, that he gave up a promising business career to devote his life to foster the growth of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Today he is Director General James J. Davis, and, although yet a young man, he has seen the order become one of the greatest organizations of men in the world.

Half Million Members
Over 500,000 men are members in the Loyal Order of Moose, and lodges meet under four different flags, at least, from the tropic circle to the Arctic Sea. It may be said that the sun never sets on the Loyal Order of Moose. It has been conservatively estimated the assets of the Loyal Order of Moose are more than $20,000,000.

The previous work of Director Davis and the Loyal Order of Moose, however, has been the creation and growth of Mooseheart, a school for the dependent children of departed Moose. It is an estate of more than 1,000 acres about 20 miles west of Chicago on the Fox River, between Aurora and Batavia, Ill.

There 1,125 children, orphans of Moose, are given education to make them useful citizens. They may choose from more than 25 trades and vocations.

Agriculture Taught
The farm which supplies their food is also the school room where they are taught agriculture. The painters of the buildings are the class of painting. The electrical apparatus is kept in order by the class in practical electricity. The weekly paper is printed by the printing class, and so on throughout the school institution. The students are taught how to do things by actually doing them, and each one goes forth from Mooseheart a journeyman in the craft of his choice.

There are over 1,600 lodges of the Loyal Order of Moose in the United States, London and Paris, the Philippines and Hawaii, Alaska and the Canadian and Mexican provinces of the north. In all the same message of brotherhood and good will is spread in the service of local lodges, and some good to some one each day is accomplished.

Members Cared For
Each local Moose lodge looks after its members in sickness and health. The lodge pays sick benefits and funeral expenses.

In most communities throughout the country, will be found comfortable Moose homes, and in many will be found palatial temples. The Moose Temple in Elmhurst is one of the architectural ornaments of the downtown district, and is exceeded in beauty and magnificence by few similar structures in the country.

A great membership campaign is now being conducted throughout Wisconsin by the various lodges. The entire facilities of the organization department are placed at the service of local lodges to acquaint the public with the aims and achievements of the order.

Useful Americans of His Time Says Harding Letter

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Transportation methods ranging from special cars to mule back were utilized to bring to Tuskegee Wednesday a steady stream of white people and negroes to attend the unveiling of a statue of Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee institute.

Special cars brought parties from New York, Washington, Chicago, Atlanta and New Orleans, and the countryside rallied in automobiles, on horseback, muleback, foot and in every conceivable kind of vehicle.

A letter from President Harding praising the work of Booker T. Washington was made public Thursday.

"I think there will be little divergence from the opinion that Booker T. Washington was one of the most useful Americans of his time."

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

MADISON, Wis.—In view of the state officials, which the Governor vetoed, would have removed what is generally considered the only valid objection to the income tax law.

What is just now of more importance to the taxpayers of the state than the result of the coming year is whether taxes for the coming year are to be higher or lower. We know what the situation is this year. Every taxpayer knows by this time that the taxes assessed against him last year and collected since the first of January are the highest known. Naturally he turns with a feeling of hope to this fall's assessment. Your correspondent has not any figures at hand to base a calculation upon as the taxes that will be levied this year, but these figures will be available within a few weeks, and will be given in this correspondence. It is pretty safe to predict, however, that there will be no lull in blood for taxpayers this year.

The importance of the livestock industry in Wisconsin is emphasized in a recent report of the Bureau of Census, states Jos. A. Becker, of the Wisconsin Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. This report shows that Wisconsin in 1919 ranked second in the value of livestock products, while in the total value of farm crops it ranked fourth and in the total value of all farm property twelfth.

The figures for livestock products, enumerated by the Census are made up of the value of dairy products, eggs and chickens, wool and mohair, and honey and flax. The value of domestic animals sold and slaughtered is not included. The total value of these products in 1919 was 215 million dollars; value of crops 145 million; and the value of all farm property, 2,677 million.

The State Department of Agriculture is much concerned over the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease in Great Britain. It is issuing a warning to farmers to be careful in hiring foreign labor. One of the chief sources of recent importation of this dangerous infection is in human clothing. No farmer should hire a foreign workman of recent importation without having the workman's clothing and belongings thoroughly fumigated.

Prof. J. A. Aust of the Department of Horticulture at the University reports that the most severe injury to shade trees from the steel storm of a month ago was in the area south of the fine drawn through La Crosse, West Salem, Bangor, Sparta, Tomah, Weymouth, Sprague, Nekeosha, Bancroft, Medina, Appleton, Kankakee, Brillion and Two Rivers. An interesting fact connected with the steel storm is that white pine, white spruce, arbor vitae, red cedar, hemlock, and balsam were scarcely injured at all. Butternut, walnut, basswood and bitternut stood up well under the weight of ice, next to the coniferous trees.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Employment conditions throughout the country continue to improve, according to reports received during the past ten days by the president's conference on unemployment. Arthur Woods, chairman of the Emergency commission, announced Wednesday.

"The upward trend," Mr. Woods said, "while not great, still continues to hold, with the number of jobs available slightly increased, coupled with a corresponding decrease in the number of applicants—a most hopeful sign."

Mr. Woods said daily reports indicating improved employment conditions were being received from mayors of several cities, including Detroit, Wis., and Sheboygan, Wis.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Past, hard fought games featured the opening day's play at the national intercollegiate basketball tournament at the University of Chicago Wednesday. Two games were played in the morning, one between Lexington and Madison, Minn., and the other between Mount Vernon, O., and Yorkton, S. D.

In the first game in the morning, Lexington, O., defeated Mount Vernon, O., 27 and 23. Mount Vernon, O., next took the Yorkton, S. D., and camp to the University of Chicago Wednesday evening. Rockford, O., had an early lead of eight points at the end of the first half, but the Lexington boys pulled up in the second half, and when there were only two minutes left to play, Lexington, O., had a long shot, and two free throws, tying the game. In the extra period, Lexington, O., scored with a free throw, but Rockford came back with a free throw and two baskets in the final game.

Lexington Beats Madison
New Richmond and Kalamazoo scored through the game, taking turns leading the lead, and finally tied at the end. In the extra period, Lexington, O., made a basket, and a free throw, winning the game, 30 and 27. # HOME RUN BAKER MAY LOSE BERTH APPEARS TOO SLOW

NEW YORK.—Home Run Baker after spending the latter part of the 1921 season on the bench because of trouble with his aged legs, now appears to be too slow to make the team this season, according to reports received here from the Yankees at Memphis. Baker's comeback has been a success as far as his work with the bat is concerned, but he is said to have alarmed Manager Huggins with his tardiness at fielding the fast third base corner.

Should Huggins decide to bench Baker he may place Mike McNally, the young world's series star, on third, and transfer Elin Ward from second to third and drop McNally in at second.

The Giants paid heavily in injuries for the five empty victories which they won from the Memphis champions of the Southern league last season. Helme Groh, star third baseman, has a mashed finger, Frank Frisch's spiked foot has become infected. Shortstop Dave Bancroft has household knees in both ankles, and Pitcher Bill Ryan has Spanish fly in the index finger of his pitching hand. None of the players is seriously hurt, but their little troubles are bothersome.

STYMIE RESTORED BY THE U. S. G. A. ON WEDNESDAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—Renaissance of the Stymie decreed Wednesday by the United States Golf Association, brings back to all American national amateur tournaments that much discussed and seldom present golf play that has stirred golfers for several years.

A golfer might play a hundred matches without once having to negotiate a stymie, that is to play over or around his opponent's ball lying on the putting green between his ball and the hole and more than six inches from the player's ball, and yet personal, sectional and even national revolt has been threatened over this one rule of golf.

Players seldom adhere to the rules in regard to the stymie in personal matches, and it has been suspended in many club frays, although its adherents assert that it lends as much zest to golf as the halting leads to billiards as compared to the old straight rail game.

ROD & REEL

THE SPINNING SPOON
You wonder where the spoon gets its big drag with the fisherman? Well, old to, for trailing and casting, the old reliable spoon is probably more generally used than any other kind of lure. You can check this up in your memory book. It often gets the fish when other lures fail to coax the big fish out of the water.

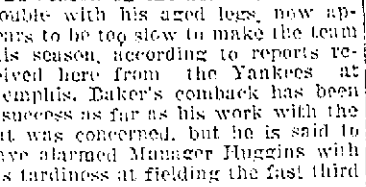

Of course the spoon doesn't look like any natural bait, nor does it appeal to the beginner as a particularly attractive feed for a hungry fish, but it does the one thing necessary in the fishing game, and that is, it attracts the fish. After you have had a spoon bent double by an over-zealous fish trying to inhale it, you will realize that it is sure some attraction.

Way back in your A. B. C. days, so piscatorial historians claim, an old sea-dog was washing his old spoon and plate after a repast of Johnny-cake and bacon, when by accident the spoon flipped into the water and did a salome down to the bottom. As the spoon zig-zagged down through the water he noticed the quick, sharp flashes of light reflected from the bowl of the spoon, and at the same time a lake trout getting the right flashes, made a lunge for the spoon, dilled his teeth on the old bait.

Thanks to the old "hand-runner" and his ability to assimilate an idea, we have the legend of spoon baits today. He rescued the spoon, cut off the bowl, bored a hole in each end, linked a hook in one end and a line in the other, and ate fish for supper that night.

SEE LARGER WOMAN REPRESENTATION IN THE NEXT CONGRESS

Record of Present Woman Member Will Aid Candidates of Others is Claim

DETROIT, Mich.—Several women will sit in the next congress, in the opinion of Mrs. Harriet Taylor-Tipton, vice chairman of the republican national committee, who was a speaker before the Women's Republican club here Wednesday. The record of Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, Mrs. Tipton declared, would aid the candidacies of a number of women who are seeking seats in the coming elections.

Women's political activities now are in a transitory state and they probably will never figure prominently as office holders, except in minor offices, but their influence will permeate politics as it does the home, Mrs. Tipton said.

One of the greatest obstacles in the way of women office seekers, she said, is the fact that man trusts woman individually but not collectively.

FARM BUREAU IS ENGAGED IN MANY SPRING ACTIVITIES

Radio Station Equipment to be Installed in Secretary's Office at Salem

The La Crosse County Farm Bureau has arranged for a series of three meetings to be held as follows: Tuesday evening, April 11th, Holmen Progressive hall, Wednesday evening, April 12th, West Salem, Sales Pavilion, Thursday evening, April 13th, Hon. George McKinnon, President of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, will address each of these meetings, and the programs are to include instrumental music, community singing and addresses upon topics of interest to the farmers of the county. A special invitation is extended to these meetings. An effort is being made to secure the presence of an address by President Howard of the National Farm Bureau Federation.

The board of directors is contemplating the publication of a monthly journal, containing the news and bulletins of the national, state and county organizations, and containing essays and articles of interest to agriculture.

The Farm Bureaus of the Towns of Shelby and Campbell have joined with patrons of the rural telephone lines in a complaint to the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin and petitioning for a reduction in the rates charged by the La Crosse Telephone Company on the rural lines extending from the City of La Crosse.

The board of directors is negotiating for a radio station equipment, which it is proposed will be installed in the Secretary's office in West Salem and from which daily market reports will be received and telephoned to the farmers of the county. It is proposed that other stations will be established in the county as soon as the equipment can be secured.

The reports of the state and county officers show that La Crosse County paid into the dog license fund during the year 1921 the sum of $1,214.00, and that there was returned to the municipal units $1,147.00.

The report of the sales at the West Salem on March 30th demonstrates that the prices for pure-bred and even-grade stock are advancing. The offerings at this sale were of the highest order and merit, and the proceeds were satisfactory to breeders.

L. P. Axtwater, the noted Purdue turkey raising breeder, reports the largest and finest brood of pure-bred turkeys that was ever fattened in his plant. The pens carried over 200 husky, healthy pigs and Mr. Axtwater figures that the total number will reach about 250.

TOPEKA NEWSPAPER PUBLISHING BIBLE IN SERIAL FORM

Four Gospels to be Published in Weekly Installments.

Announces Editor TOPEKA, Kan.—The Topeka State Journal is the first daily newspaper in the United States to begin publication of the Bible in serial form, in accordance with the recent suggestion of Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka, editor-in-chief of the Christian Herald.

The four gospels will be published in weekly installments of about 3,000 words. Arthur J. Crenshaw, managing editor of the State Journal, announced. The Weymouth text of the New Testament, a translation in everyday English, will be used throughout. The first installment gives "The Good News as Recorded by Mark."

In a recent address to journalism students at Washburn College here, Dr. Sheldon declared the newspaper publishing the Bible serially would not only give its subscribers an opportunity to read the most interesting story in the world but would render an important service in developing a taste for Bible literature. The Topeka divine later made the same statement in a talk before the Merrill School of Journalism at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

Dr. Sheldon is the author of "In His Steps" and numerous other books dealing with practical Christianity. He is a thorough believer in the power of the press and has advocated the establishment of religious duties for dissemination of Christian ideals.

LAURA HOPE CREWS COMING TO CITY WITH "MR. PIM"

Laura Hope Crews, who heads the company of players in "Mr. Pim Passes By," which comes to the La Crosse Theater on Friday, April 21, long since established her reputation as one of the leading comedienne on the American stage. It was not by easy stages that she reached her present eminence but through long and sound training.

Born in San Francisco, birthplace of many fine American actors, she made her debut when a child in "Editha's Burglar," a little play that brought many young actresses before the public. Then she had an exceptionally good training in the excellent stock companies of her native city. Miss Crews hasn't any idea how many parts she played in her girlhood days, but the range included everything from "Miss Marmalade" to "The Girl in the Red Velvet Shoes." Her first appearance in the East was in "The Mummy" at the New York City stock company in New York, and one of her associates at that time was Frances Starr. Then came "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "What Happened to Jones," and "Mabel's Baby." Since then, she will be particularly recalled in "Ransom's Ransom," "Zaza," "The Great Divide," with Henry Miller in this country and in London; "Tolly Jordan," "The Philosopher," "The Haves," "Misses Page," "The Girl in the Red Velvet Shoes," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Phantom Rival," "Peter Pan," "The Saving Grace" and "Ten for Three."

STOLEN LAUNCH IS RECOVERED ABOVE WINONA

Joseph Hoffman, of Winona, was again in possession of his gasoline launch today after the craft had been taken from the dock at Fountain City, where its owner had lost it last night. The boat was recovered about two miles below Fountain City by Joe Besse, a fisherman.

The launch was found to be missing at about 7 a. m. Although the possibility was recognized that some one had stolen the boat and set it adrift, Mr. Hoffman was inclined to believe that the launch had been made to scum it. The gas tank was empty when the boat was recovered, indicating the possibility that it had been abandoned by the thief.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

In The MOVIES

CHARLES RAY—RIVOLI Charles Ray has another corky comedy role in "R. S. V. P." which opens at the Rivoli theater today. This time the popular boyish star plays his pranks as an amateur artist who dares indiscriminately in paint and love. He is equally successful in both, but only after he has run the gamut of trouble in trying to assure himself of three square meals a day without giving away to his girl the fact that he is just struggling for a living.

The role fits the star like the evening clothes he wears. In the part of Richard Morgan, who is constantly refusing financial assistance from wealthy relatives in order to retain his independence, he has abundant opportunity to display the broad face of comedy for which he has become famous. He is ably assisted in his character by Harry Myers who, in the role of Penny Fielding, is a bit more serious than the star.

From a humorous angle on the struggles of impoverished artists, the picture veers into the highbrow of picture morals and his chum, stage society. Moran and his chum, stage society. Moran and his chum, stage society. Moran and his chum, stage society.

With this as a basis the star evolves situations that are exasperatingly funny and that increase in effect as the result of his own baffling style of meeting an embarrassing situation.

PAULINE STARK—MAJESTIC Pauline Stark has the leading role in "Wife Against Wife," which comes to the Majestic theater the last of this week.

As a French model, who comes to America in quest of the artist who has won her love, Miss Stark has a role which gives her many opportunities to display her histrionic talent.

Gabriel, the model, is heartbroken when she learns that Stannard Dale, the artist, is already married to a heartless and selfish woman. Dale succumbs to a fatal illness and the widow again comes into the life of Gabriel, when the latter is happily married to a prosperous physician.

She brings about the separation of Gabrielle and her husband, by falsifying the diary of Stannard Dale and by accusing the doctor of shifting his affections to a nurse. After a year of heart-rending separation, Gabrielle and her husband are brought together by their child and the malicious widow is revealed in her true light.

STRAND, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY One of the most unusual stories to have ever been gotten ready for the screen is at the Strand Friday and Saturday when a four-star cast will interpret the characters in "So This is Arizona," a stirring western novel that is filled to overflowing with thrills.

The story is timely, and especially appealing to the boys who saw service overseas. While it is not a war story by any means, there is shown the adventures of a veteran who came back just in time to run head-on into a series of adventures that are hair-raising.

A woman, loyal, true and upright, with the deep-rooted love for home and children that is the heritage of every woman; a man whose creed has been to get gold and whose highest ideal of marriage is the perpetuation of his name and race so that more gold may be gathered; a woman who has in the journey of life become more noble instincts, and has become a soldier, wreck of humanity; a man, clean, honorable and faithful who is plunged into a tragedy which threatens to leave an everlasting mark of shame.

These are the characters who carry the main thread of the story in "Salvage." Charles Fredericks' latest adventure to be shown at the Strand Monday and Tuesday. A drama that is alive and throbbing in its humaneness, these characters, each an individual of a distinct type, are thrown together by a strange destiny.

New Table and Bed "Crank up" a new table and the top is raised three feet, and with it the rearrangement it is made into a comfortable bed.

KATHERINE TINGLEY
TARGET OF ATTACK
BY SWEDISH PAPERS
No Visitor in Years Has Created Such Journalistic Furor as U. S. Theosophist
STOCKHOLM.—No person in private or public life who has visited Sweden of late years has aroused such a journalistic furor as Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society of Point Loma, Cal., who has now been here for several weeks. She has been the target of attack in the Stockholm press and Swedish newspapers, joined in protesting against her influence in Sweden.
Thus far the storm of criticism has had apparently no effect on the American woman unless it has induced her to prolong her visit. A few days ago she left the Grand Hotel, Stockholm's principal hotel, and moved into an apartment in the fashionable Strandvagen, an avenue where many socially prominent residents of the capital have their homes.
The Swedish newspapers say Mrs. Tingley came to Sweden because of fear that her Swedish secretary was about to fall in pieces. The newspapers say that two of Mrs. Tingley's high executives in Sweden have recently resigned their posts. One of these was Captain von Greyer, head of the Stockholm branch of theosophists and the other was Torsten Karding, leader of the Gothenburg Theosophical sect.
Mrs. Tingley and other newspapers state that Dr. Erik Boström of Gothenburg has been chosen head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society of Sweden. L. A. Gyllenberg, treasurer and Mrs. Anna Wengner, a well known Stockholm society woman, head of the Stockholm circle. If Mrs. Tingley came here to reorganize her sect, she has apparently finished her task.
One reason for Mrs. Tingley's visit here was understood to be to meet a Raja Yoga school on the beautiful island of Visingsö in Lake Vättern, Central Sweden. But her friends say she has decided not to do this at present. Before the war Swedish theosophists raised about $25,000 for that purpose.
The limit was owned 300 years ago by Count von Brahe, one of Sweden's most famous nobles. Stockholm newspapers say that Mrs. Tingley has asserted that she is a reincarnation of the Count and that on visiting the island some years ago she exclaimed dramatically: "Ah, my old home!" One effect of the newspaper campaign has been to pack the lecture halls where Mrs. Tingley has been speaking.

WISCONSIN STATE BANKS REPORTED IN BETTER SHAPE

Conditions Tending Back to Normal According to Statement of Banking Commissioner

STATE BANKS SHOW DEPOSITS OF CLOSE TO HALF BILLION

Means Gain of Fifteen Millions Over Total of December

MADISON, Wis.—The condition of state banks in Wisconsin is shown to be more favorable by the abstract of Marshall Cousins, banking commissioner, based on the call of March 10, and according to him is "tending to work back to normal." While banks are more firmly situated than for some time, the commissioner in a statement expresses the opinion that a conservative policy will be necessary for some time.

Reports by $50 state banks on their March 10 condition, shows total deposits of $400,910,873, a gain of $15,160,000 over the call of December 31. Deposits of other banks amounted to $9,222,000, an increase of $2,334,000, while individual deposits increased $19,717,000 to $113,571,000. Time certificates of deposit amounted to $125,320,000, a gain of $2,794,000.

Savings account balances were reported at $113,434,000, a falling off of $8,422,000. Under resources, loans and discounts were increased $4,284,000, and investments in government bonds $1,768,000. Investment in other bonds increased $815,000.

No banks, either state or national were closed during the period from December 31, 1921, to March 10, 1922, Mr. Cousins reported.

Compared to a year ago he said that the falling off in deposits had amounted to $23,397,000, explaining, however, that "the reduction in deposits cannot be considered as alarming, as it is largely due to the use of funds in the industries of the state."

"Undoubtedly several million dollars has been invested outside of the state in the numerous speculative stock, bonds and other investments which are being so freely offered by solicitors and through the mails."

Get After What You Want

It is no use just sitting down and waiting for things to happen. Life is "round the corner," and you've got to run after it, and run fast, too, with your head up and your mind alert. Wishes are all very well, but they must not master you. You've got to master them. Long, yearning desire, as much as you like, it is a good sign, but, oh, don't put your wishbone in the place where your backbone ought to be.—Exchange.

CURRENT EVENTS

A Simplified Discussion of Topics of Interest for School Children and Busy Adults. Today's Subjects:

1. TURKISH EMPIRE'S REVIVAL
2. AMUNDSEN'S DASH FOR POLE
3. THE "5-5-3 TREATY" IN SENATE

The Turkish Empire, which was broken up in the world war, is coming back to life again. But it will not be nearly as powerful as it was before it joined Germany in the war. The allies will give Constantinople, capital of the empire, back to Turkey. They also will allow Turkey to rule Armenia, Azors, Anatolia and part of Thrace.

But the people of Armenia, who are not on good terms with the Turks, will be protected by the league of nations.

Great Britain will keep on ruling Mesopotamia, formerly a part of the Turkish empire, where some think the Garden of Eden, mentioned in the Bible, was located.

And the allies will keep the Gallipoli peninsula, a part of Turkey. This peninsula is important because it controls trade routes.

Since the war ended Turkey has had very little power. The allies sent soldiers to Constantinople to rule that city. The sultan, as the Turkish ruler is called, had no authority at all.

At the same time, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, Turkish officer and politician, set up a government of his own in Ankara, Asia Minor. He has been warring with Greece.

The allies have asked Kemal and the Greek government to stop this war by signing an armistice.

Why have the allies brought Turkey back to life? Probably because their Mohammedan subjects in India and African countries demand it.

Mohammedans look on Constantinople as a holy city and consider the sultan as the head of their religion.

The Turks have ruled Constantinople since 1453 when they took it from the Greek or Byzantine empire.

The capture of Constantinople was one of the things that led to the discovery of America by Columbus in 1492. The Turks had cut off trade routes to the east and the western European nations believed they could find new ones by voyaging westward.

Roald Amundsen, the explorer who discovered the south pole, is now in New York planning an expedition to the north pole.

But he will not undergo the hardships, cold and hunger he suffered on other expeditions. That is because he will go to the north pole by airplane instead of by the old-fashioned method of ship and dog-sled.

Amundsen will equip his airplane with a wireless outfit. With this he will be able to talk daily with people in the civilized world and tell them of his experiences and discoveries.

Amundsen will start for the pole from Seattle, Wash., June 1. He will allow his airplane to drift across the pole in air currents.

He hopes to learn more of the northern country, its lands and waters, its animals and air currents than ever has been known before.

Amundsen was born at Borje, Norway, in 1872. He's been an explorer since he was 25.

The United States senate has taken up the naval limitation treaty which was signed at the recent conference on limitation of armaments in Washington.

This treaty aims to cut down the number of battleships owned by the world's great nations. This, it is thought, will make war less likely and save much money.

The treaty sometimes is called the "5-5-3 treaty" because it provides Japan shall have three battleships for every five owned by Great Britain or the United States.

Thus under the treaty, if the United States has 20 battleships, Great Britain may likewise have 20 but Japan may have only 12.

The senate must ratify or approve this treaty before it goes into effect. The governments of the other nations concerned also must ratify it.

The four-power treaty, another treaty signed at the conference on limitation of armaments, already has been ratified by our senate.

Too Many—"Lady, to see you, sir." "My fiancée?" "I am not sure, sir. I've mistaid your card index."—Judge.

An easy way to get our old ships torn up is to send them to a laundry.
